"I consider an activist to be someone who faces an issue head on and tries to make a change in the world. In COLAGE, we're all young activists. We're showing pride in our families and expressing our views. We are not afraid of the people who may object to what we're doing. We do all that we can to educate others about alternative families, with the hope that we will spread a spirit of tolerance and acceptance."